AT a special meeting of the Board of property in Lancaster, June 24, 1799.

Daniel Brodhead, Sec. Gen.

Francis Johnston, Reg. Gen.

The petition of Thomas Stewardson on behalf of himself and the other trustees for the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, bearing date Philadelphia, 5th Month 17th 1799, stated as follows, viz. That a certain John Collins had in consequence of fraudulent deeds poll, obtained patents for two certain tracts of land, one situate in the county of Northumberland, surveyed to Samuel Caldwell in pursuance of a warrant dated in 1774; and the other situate now in Luzerne county, surveyed to said Caldwell by a warrant also dated in 1774—and requested that patents might be granted, for the said tracts, to William Crammond, Edward Tilghman, John Ashley, and Thomas Stewardson, trustees of the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, as the said two tracts were part of the estate of Meese and Caldwell.

Whereupon the Board having considered the same, ordered that at least sixty days notice be given in one of the Philadelphia newspapers, and in the Lancaster Journal to the said Collins or his assigns, to appear before the Board on the first Monday in October next, to shew cause if any he or they have, why patents should not issue for the said two tracts to the said trustees agreeably to the prayer of the said petition.

COMMUNICATION.

BEFORE we discontinue these discussions, it may be worth the while to take a steady view and last leave of France. "Wonderful people!" the immortal and sagacious Washington stiled them when Adet presented half a dozen yards of silk to the United States—and as the best of men might say of Barrington and Jonathan Wild the great. Indeed the human mind has wondered at them till it has become callous from repeated blows. We no longer estimate affairs as formerly; but in the reflux of this tremendous inundation we are no less concerned than in its former stages, and soon perhaps may indulge a less anxious and distressing curiosity.

It seems to have been for some reason or other a very favorite design of France to implicate the United States in the present war in such a manner as to render the step we should take wholly irretrievable. It is now quite evident from undoubted documents that in the interference of that nation in the late war, she was moved, as was very natural, by no other hope than that of subjecting us to herself instead of England. She was against our independence for the very good reason that she could make us more injurious to England while colonies, and capable of being excited to rebel, than she could be certain of if we were allowed to shake off the English yoke. But when it was found that there would be no peace without our absolute detachment from Great-Britain, then France took special care to plant the vine of gratitude in this country for future use. What and all that astonishes me is that the policy of the monarchy should be so steadily pursued by each and all the dynasties of the revolution. Evidently at all times we have had to encounter the policy of France in its full vigor; or if it be contended for, it may be allowed that as a republic she has treated us differently—but infinitely worse. Perhaps the case is this, that we have seen nothing but the maxims of France displayed, but that the hurry and pressing occasions of the revolution have caused a more rapid developement than was consistent with the original design. Unhappy nation! she has ruined herself, and her printing, spouting and vaporing republic has betrayed a secret which her future monarchy will never be able to retrieve.

When the simple dictates of private morality are no longer received, but the possession of mere brutal force has been sufficient in the mean and savage mind to surmount the obligation of restraint, let it be set down as an eternal truth written upon moral nature with the finger of God, that desolation, misery and remorse are bargained for and will be punctually delivered. Such is the certain tendency and effect of the dereliction of established principles, that though mankind may one and all suffer and even encourage the experiment, they will soon despise it. The state of society is incapable of perfection; or rather perhaps it should be said that this perfection is a well balanced government—but all pretended reformations by civil war are mere private quarrels which only exhaust the family, and end in the same thing or something worse. France cannot escape the decree of Heaven which has inscribed decay and death upon error and wickedness. She cannot resist the opinion of the world and her own distressful coinciding opinion. She will be detested no less for her profligacy than for injustice and cruelty. Her beastliness of moral intellect, and her detestable scepticism of all true principle must pass through a purgatory of long duration both of suffering and form. Or else, in lieu of all this, France must conquer the world

The present is a war of religion, or a bloody promulgation of faith, as much as that of Mahomet was in the seventh century. In all new dispensations except the christian, the religion and the government have been, I think, one and the same. So in France, human reason is assumed to be the proper and sufficient guide of man, and this new creed is to be propagated as a religion by the sword. We shall see whether a principle tending to nothing less than the extermination of the whole human race will be received—If it should be France will have the consoling reflection of having reduced the world to barbarism, and of making the principal figure in it—But if not, these twenty centuries past have not seen so wretched a nation.

While the people of France were deceived in the natue of their revolution, and irresistibly impelled by the fanaticism of its early stages, it is not surprising on the one hand that the rest of the world should prepare for resistance, nor on the other that France should overweeningly think to subdue it. Her successes, so much admired, were really destitute of merit in every respect—but they were successes. In the outset of superstition it is immaterial whether Caled leads Arabians, or Pichegrue Frenchmen,—the former will deserve from Mahomet the appellation of "sword of God." & the latter from the world (as France will have no God) that of "sword of the devil." "Believe or die," will be the terms of both, and miseries their blessings. But there is reason to think that the fickleness of Frenchmen has nearly rung its changes, for now nothing but despotism can oblige them to hold fast their liberty. Five daring characters at length compose their Executive, and all their late struggles appear to be only the pantings of a wretch unwilling to die. Could they be willing to violate their constitution by every kind of arbitrary act, if they supposed the precedent would ever be quoted? Would they send to Egypts an army which they could pay?—Would they plunder without mercy the nations which they proposed to conciliate?

No! There is an evident consciousness that civil liberty, or (to return them their own phrases) equality is impracticable and that France can never be a democracy. The enterprize, after having done infinite mischief and no good whatever, is given up. Things have already finished their natural course and the catastrophe exhibits an imperious destitute army to which the Roman legions and Pretorian cohorts bear no analogy. The banditti of the crusades resemble it more; for they were terrible alike to friends and foes. Apparently such a thraldom cannot continue long; but in its nature it is more durable than the democracy which it has destroyed. The example of General Monk seems to be always in view of the Directory, who suffer no general to have a permanent command. But violence has long been necessary to obtain recruits, and the public mind is under coercion. Not only has enthusiasm ceased, but regret and aversion have succeeded.

In this predicament it can scarcely be concealed from the nation that their navy is totally ruined, and that their armies have at length been defeated. They are surrounded by a hatred so much the more bitter, as they have spread ruin wherever they bestowed liberty, and their friendships have always been sarcastic and ironical. All nations have seen the republican sneer, and groaned within the fraternal embrace. There sleeps a horrible revenge. Brigades of women fought in Switzerland, and the matron and betrothed virgin fell alike beneath the republican sword and flying artillery. The age of chivalry is gone indeed if this shall be!—No! Turks grow Christians, and Russians assert refinement—against liberty! A Frenchman becomes a viper or a wolf which all mankind will kill. Insulted so many years by dastardly conquest and varnished corruption, suffering honour will give way to indignation, and anguish accelerate every blow. The father, son, and lover of murdered and violated thousands will be in the pursuing ranks, and bleeding religion will point to her destroyers.—Where then will be the needful support of Frenchmen? What will soften the panic which will seize the public mind? Will the licentious days of the revolution be remembered with delight and satisfaction? Will crimes cheer the soul, and vice fortify the heart? Will the loss of faith give confidence, and profligacy excite to virtuous deeds? What will patriotism have to fight for, or generous courage to defend? Where, then will patriotism and generous courage be found?—Despair! Horror of the blackest hue will follow, and vindicate the eternal and immutable relation of wickedness and misery!

From the WESTERN TELEGRAPHE.

The approaching Anniversary of our Independence leads the mind to the contemplation of our national affairs and a comparative view of our situation at different periods. And as when danger approaches the object of our attatchment and affection, the cords of affection are drawn closer, so from the menaces to which our country has been recently exposed, we will readily feel a more lively interest in the circumstance of her situation—I say recently, and whether it is owing to more constitutional fortitude or to what other cause; I confess I do not feel inclined to subscribe to the opinion, that every year manifests a diminution of our independence.

Although the Guardian Genius of America seemed for a while to have withheld her aid, and left her charge exposed to the corruption and violence of a Foreign Power; whilst within, we had but two much to apprehend from the unfortunante prejudices of our countrymen; yet she seems disposed to reinstate us upon the best basis of independence—public confidence——The present inclination of the public mind as manifested by the late general elections—being the most unequivocal test of public opinion, affords a highly flattering evidence to the administration, that on their part, they have not neglected the duty incumbent on them of providing for the common safety.

Many experienced and intelligent characters hold the opinion that the mass of society will not long coutinue to persever in erroneous conduct.—And although in some degree, like individuals, influenced by private passions and prejudices, which subject them to temporary delusion, yet generally that their conduct will correspond with their information—A forcible illustration of this opinion may unhappily be found in the State of Kentucky—where information has flown through the most corrupt channels, where every act of Administation has been misrepresented and calumniated—where publications the most despicable for style and matter, have been extolled propagated and read—forgetting that a regard to liberty, tho' a laudible passion, ought commonly to be subordinate to a reverence to established government—they have contemned those maxims that are essential to the very existence af society.

It is a strange and unhappy situation in which the people have been placed, to be every day tortured with perplexed stories, and inflamed with hard suspicions of the Administration.—Their conduct and demeanour prove them to have been led astray by the intrigues of party and prejudices, to be generally guided by a honest but indiscreet, and dangerous zeal, to countenance mal-contents and encourage clamours which were not only without reason, but often for bad purposes raised against the administration—Such measures, when duly considered will shake and destroy all public confidence, diminish the respect and authority of those, to whom, we have delegated the administration of our Government—And so paralize their efforts, as to render our government and easy prey to foreign intrigue or faction.—Such an unhappy state of affairs, might indeed, confirm the opinion entertained by some that a republic is of theoretical existence.

These evils do not seem to be confined to Kentucky. Pennsylvania has experienced her full share of them. That intelligence conveyed through such channels and by such men, should have been attended to, is equally scandalous and deplorable. Men who [when fully known] have neither character sufficient to gain belief even for truth; nor, scarcely, sense to invent a credible falsehood. It is needless to enter into particulars, when the whole is so apparent. The state of the last federal elections however, lead to a consolatory presumption and belief that the time is fast approaching when the present delusion will be dissipated, when the force of truth and a strong sense of indignity and injury will zealously engage our citizens to inforce a just reparation to our injured honor.

Though governments too steady and uniform may not be the most free—yet the fluctuation and unsteadiness incident to lax systems, or administrations is always more dangerous to the freedom and security of the people; and notwithstanding the doctrine of non-resistance might not in every possible circumstance be absolutely true, yet the belief of it may be expedient; for the government which has a contrary principle for its basis, contains within itself the seeds of perpetual revolution and convulsions.

A happy medium system has been reserved for the people of America, of which we may safely affirm without any danger of exaggeration, if it is not the best system of government; it is at least the most rational system of liberty, that ever was known among mankind.—Yet it cannot be too often repeated, or too deeply impressed upon the minds of us all; that jealousy and distrust are the bane of any government, but peculiarly of a republic.—And that jealousy and distrust, as it may naturally lead to, so it will justly form an apology, for all the inconveniences of a too rigorous administration.——Let us beware then how by our conduct or conversation, we withold that respect and confidence which is so justly due, and necessary to the existence of our government, lest we add our State to the unhappy list, which have been hurried impetuously by a factious and indiscreet zeal, into an overthrow of their systems of government; on the ruins of which others have been established, less congenial with the principles of liberty, and less conducive to the interest and happiness of the people.

FROM INDIA.

We learn that Tippo Saib had, declared war against the English government in India: and that in consequence, the government had taken the country ships into the company's service.

FROM SURINAM.

Extract of a letter from a merchant in Surrinam to a gentleman in this town, dated May 29, 1799.

"The departure of our fleet has surprised us, and caused much uneasiness here, especially on account of the trade with America, which is of great importance to us as well as to you—notwithstanding which, no steps have been taken to keep this fleet here. The Governor remonstrated against its departure, and stated to the Commander, Hartsinck, that the colony would be left in a most distressed situation, unless the fleet remained to protect them. These wise arguments of the Governor were, however, not attended to, and a majority of the Council determined that the fleet should depart, agreeably to the orders of the Dutch government in Holland. In consequnce of which we have now only a few disabled vessels which are not able to proceed to sea, and of course of no service to us—not being in a situation to give us the least protection; Our coast is therefore exposed to any privateer or ships of war that may approach it; even the boats from Cayenne can come and do as they please, and can with ease take every vessel, either bound to or from Surinam.—The French being allies of the Dutch, we cannot refuse them entrance into our river, however much we could wish it. It therefore remains with your government to save this colony from the depredations of these pirates, and to secure to America, a most valuable branch of commerce.—If your government should think fit to send some of your ships of war to cruise on the coast, it will not be amiss to give them some directions how to approach it, and where to cruise—first, one ship of 44 or 36 guns, to cruise between Cayenne and Marrowine—one of 24, off the mouth of Surinam river, and two small vessels for the communication between the ship cruising near Cayenne and Marrowine, and the one off Surinam river. If these precautions are taken by your government, you may enjoy an uninterrupted trade. There is no ships of force either at Cayenne or Guadaloupe, which would dare engage either of your ships;—and if any more ships should be sent by the French government to cruise here, your vessels will have greatly the advantage over them, as they will have the ports of Demerara and Berbice open to them, where they can refresh, and be supplied with every thing necessary. Here they can be reinforced by the English, or more ships from your navy; and by this means effectually prevent the French from committing their accustomed depredations on your trade—for if the French once enter the river of Surinam, they will take your vessels there, as well as at sea—as the Dutch can give them no protection.

"Information has been received here by deserters from Cayenne, that in that place continual conspiracies are formed and forming against the white inhabitants, and a similar fate awaits us, which the unhappy people of St. Domingo have experienced. Through the wise precaution of our worthy Governor, our colony has hitherto been tranquil; our slaves are contented and happy, but the French party are very busy—and joined by some Jacobins of this place, are meditating a revolution of a very serious nature, but it is fortunate the number of these revolutionists are comparatively small, & men of no character or influence. The majority of the inhabitants, men of distinction, morals and principle, and in favour of good order, are determined to support the wise measures of our Governor. Our stores are full of sugar, coffee, cotton and cocoa.—The convoy of the Portsmouth, Capt. M'Neil, was composed of 74 sail which will give you some idea of the consequence of the trade to this place, and how necessary it is for your government to protect a trade, that will enrich the coffers of your merchants; be a source of wealth to the revenue, and offer a market for the abundant produce of your country.

P. S. I forgot to inform you of the capture of the brig Prudence, taken by Malroyn from Cayanne, and sent into this river—The sentence of condemnation is arrived here, from Cayenne, but Frederick the governor has refused to give his consent, to the sale of the vessels and cargo at this place, in consequence of which Capt. Malroyn was obliged to depart with his prize. "The Spanish fleet commanded by Don Emparam, has sailed from here after taking in provision and water, destination unknown. 600 troops arrived here in three Spanish ships—their troops were formerly the Royal Guards to the King of Spain, but now in the Dutch service—Flanders men—of the first destination, and nobility, whose conduct are worthy of praise, and much respected both by the governor and the most respectable inhabitants here!

NEW-YORK, July 13.

Extract of a letter from the Supercargo of the ship Mary Ann, captain Adams, of 14 guns and 20 men, belonging to Messrs. Murry & Mumford, of this city, dated Cadiz, May 24, 1799.

"We fell in on the 11th instant with 7 French privateers, and 10 minutes before one o'clock, a smart action commenced, in a perfect calm, and lasted one hour and forty minutes, during which time we had one man killed, 5 badly and 2 slightly wounded, all our main shrouds and stays cut away, most of our spars much injured by shot, and our bulwark laid level with the deck; we were at length obliged to surrender, and then experienced such savage treatment, by being beaten for our resistance, as would disgrace even uncivilized men.—Plundered of every rag of cloaths and bedding, and both wounded and others, confined four nights in the hold, and obliged to sleep on the ballast."

Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, the New-York Riflemen formed at Trinity church, and marched to a field on Greenwich road, where they shot respectively for a Gold Prize Medal, which the corps had appropriated as a badge of merit, to be worn by the member who should make the best shot. The target was placed at the distance of 150 yards; there was much good firing; many of the balls were lodged within the first and second circle from the centre, a diameter of about 14 inches.—The prize was won by corporal Gulian Ludlow, who lodged his ball within an inch of the very centre of the bulls eye: he was accordingly on parade vested by lieut. Armstrong, the commanding officer, with the honorable mark of distinction. We understand there are to be competitions quarterly for this medal; in October, January, April and July, at which times, should the possessor of the medal be excelled by any other of the corps, it will be transferred to him. We think this judicious plan will excite an emulation to excell which must render the Riflemen a very respectable corps.

By the M'Pherson, arrived here yestereday in 13 days from St. Kitts, we have been favored with the St. Christophers Advertiser of June 25, 1799, from which we have copied the following articles:

Basseterre, June 25.

By a vessel lately arrived at Port Royal, Martinique, which left Gibraltar the 23d of May, the following intelligence was received;—

Sunday afternoon, May 5, a French fleet of 19 sail of the line, passed through the Gut from the Westward, blowing very hard from the South West, with rain and heavy squalls; so much were they favored by the thickness of the weather, that Lord Keith, who was cruising with 15 sail of the line off Cadiz, did not perceive them, or know of their being at sea, until the Success frigate (which had dogged them the whole way) informed him of it; on which his lordship anchored in Gibraltar bay. The second day after, Lord St. Vincent hoisted his flag on board the Ville de Paris, and sailed after them with a fair wind. On the 15th in the night, the Spanish fleet also passed through the Gut with 17 sail of the line. On Sunday the 19th, Admiral Witshed, in the Queen Charlotte, arrived from England, with four sail of the line and three frigates. He left Adm. Gardner lying in Plymouth sound with ten sail of the line, ready to sail at a moments notice for Gibralter. Admiral Whitshed sailed the next day from Gibralter, to join Lord St. Vincent. The day after the Cormorant, Lord Kerr, arrived at Gibralter from Minorca, and had spoke with Lord St. Vincent, off Carthagena, and brought word all was well. The Childers was dispatched to England. It was supposed that adm. Gardner would have arrived at Gibralter by the 23d May.

From the above account, Lords St. Vincent and Keith must have been between the two fleets. Being reinforced by Adm. Whitshed, the British fleet would be 22 sail of the line, which is superior to either; and when we recollect that the gallant Lord St. Vincent with 15 sail of the line, defeated the Spanish fleet, of 27 and captured four of them, we entertain sanguine hopes that he will not only be able to withstand the conjoint fleets of France and Spain, but that he will add more of them to the British navy

His Majesty's ship Lapwing Capt Harvey, has captured and brought in since our last, a schooner under Swedish colours, from St. Bartholomews to Guadaloupe, laden with beef, fish, &c. A schr. under Swedish colours from do. to do. laden with dry goods, cordage, &c. A French schooner (cargo we know not). A Spanish polarce, from Cadiz, laden with quick silver.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 15.

A democratic publican, on the Lancaster road, has posted over his fire-place a number of advertisements of horses, &c. In the centre of the croud of stallions, bulls and jack asses, stand (very properly disposed) the several orders of Tench Coxe, James A. Dallas, &c. to the good people of this Commonwealth, to choose M'Kean governor. If the caitiff had had a mind to set forth old Dignity's excellent qualities as a Hostler to good effect, he should have had his most sweet face pourtrayed and put there.

A stronger evidence of sinister designs on the part of the advocates for M'Kean, than the activity of Tench Coxe in his behalf need not be sought for. The man who could hold fast to his loyalty through the contempt and detestation of all his fellow citizens, is not likely at this day to be so easily drawn off from it. It is fair, therefore, to conclude that he still has reason to believe he is advancing the interests of his master; and in this light, every friend to the Independence of America, must look upon him and his schemes with horror.

"Shew me a poor man and I'll shew you a scoundrel!"

If Fouquier Tinville had said this, he would have have disgraced himself even with his bloody-minded compeers: but here, what are we to think of its making a governor?

In the present infant state of our naval establishment, when it has to contend through every step of its progress, not less against a depraved opposition from sworn foes to the prosperity of the country, than the idle and unmanly quibbles of professed cavillers, successes which would at any other time be unimportant, are exalted to dignity and consequence. At so critical and hazardous an hour, every thing that tends even in a remote degree to advance and confirm this important bulwark of the nation, must be received with ardor by every friend to his country, and estimated, at least to the full extent of its consequence. The officers who atchieve such exploits should be revered and honored as the peculiar asserters of their country's glory, and the avengers of her wrongs. No opportunity should be omitted of demonstrating esteem, gratitude and respect for those who through scenes of severest toil and peril, bear the avenging thunder of our arms to the doors of the enemy, and boldly hurl him defiance in the seat of his insolent power. By such conduct we have it in our option to create those means which can alone effectually protect us from degradation and insult—by such means may we advance the great end of establishing a navy—and America, once become a formidable maritime power, it is not in the nature of things possible, that she can fail to be great. For a nation to be great, it is only necessary that she wills it.

How many thousand dollars will not the recent capture by capt. Tingey have been the means of saving to this country? and yet the beastly Democrats will growl at the expence of a navy.

Amongst other means resorted to by the Democrats to destroy our navy in its cradle, they have had the meanness even to bely the credit of the ships. The Ganges was called a log—and lo, it happens that she outsails the fastest of the French privateers.

MEMORABILIA.

"Talk to me of your poor honest men," indeed! said Don Thomaso at the table of Don Edwardo "Talk to me of your poor, honest men!" It's all nonsense—Who ever heard of poor honest man? "shew me A POOR MAN and I'll shew you A SCOUNDREL"!!!!!!!!! O! wise young Judge? O! learned Judge! O! upright, just, magnanimous Judge!

"He even took the wall of me!"

Fouquier Tinville is said to have had a man guillotined for taking the wall of him. One would hardly think this country would ever exhibit a picture so brutal and so bloody as this: but that it contains a Fouquier or a Jeffries in disposition, tho,' happily not in power, will be doubted by no one who hears that an "ancient knave," whom honest men dread and villians idolize, advanced against a man on his trial as a criminal act, his having the audacity to take the wall of him.

To the Managers of the Alms-House and House of Employ.

GENTLEMEN,

I HAVE proved clearly, that four hundred and fifty three paupers have done little or nothing for a whole year in the House of Employ, in other words, they have only earned a profit of four shillings each on their labour, although they were found in every thing at the public expence.

I will now as clearly prove, that your patients for three years past in the Pennsylvania Hospital have cost you no more than one hundred and fifteen cents a week each, although some writers have ungenerously asserted they cost three dollars.

The facts will appear on accounts rendered to you for three years past, to be, as follows, viz.

1797	20	22	42	paupers,	919	in the hospital.	932 16
798	31	40	71		1410		1716 28
799	21	27	48		1424		1682 53
total,	72	89	161		3763		dollars 4320 97

which is, upon an average, no more than one hundred and fifteen cents per week for each person. Now let us see how much less it is than the actual expence to the Hospital.

	Dls.	Cts.
3763 weeks at 3 dollars per week the cost is	11,289
Deduct the above, which is all the hospital are to receive from you,	4,320	97
The balance will then be	6,968	3

given in charity to the city and liberties by the contributors, and is about two thousand three hundred and twenty two dollars per annum, for three years past or a little more.

This is a very handsome contribution, though it is no more than is due to the city and liberties of Philadelphia, for that support which their citizens have given to the institution. But it is the duty of the Managers at the same time, not to forget legislative grants; and their charter, which constitutes the Pennsylvania Hospital to be, not a city, but a state institution, intended to diffuse its benefits without partiality to city and country and destitute strangers, the objects of Legislative attention, and of the contributors care.

A letter from Capt. Tingey, of which the following is an extract, was received on Saturday at the office of the Secretary of the Navy.

Ganges, off St. Bartholomews, 26th June, '99,

SIR,

AGREEABLY to the tenor of my correspondence, by the Baltimore, capt. Barron, of the 11th inst. I proceeded with the Ganges to the coast of St. Bartholomews, where I met as heretofore only fruitless chaces, till the morn of the 16th. after being joined by capt Bainbridge with the Norfolk, when rather before day, a sail was discovered under our lee—chace was immediately given to the N. W. the course the vessel took; our situation being about N E. by N. from St. Bartholomews 16 or 18 leagues.

As the day opened we knew or believed her to be a French privateer sloop of 10 guns which we had seen a few days ago in the harbour of that island, and she was scarce more than three or four gun shot distance. She led us however, with every sail in the ship sett, till three in the afternoon, having run near 90 miles, and discharged upwards of 40 guns at her, some of the last of which were loaded with cannister shot, which went round him like hail, without doing him any material damage, and fortunately for him none of his numerous crew were hurt.

During the chace he had cast overboard (in order to lighten his vessel, and facilitate his sailing) the boat, some of his provisions, all his guns, except two, and much other heavy material, but to no effect. After or about 1 P. M. finding we approached him, and that he must fall, he hoisted French colours, and fired a gun to the windward, to give him opportunity of striking in from; which he at length did, but so near that a broadside from the ship would probably have totally destroyed him. It proved to be the privateer sloop Vamqueure of Guadaloupe, of 8 guns and 85 men. She is Bermudian built, coppered up to the bends, was most completely fitted, & from her rate of sailing, (being by their account, the swiftest privateer of Gaudaloupe excepting one) and the number of her men, she would have proved extremely misch evous to our trade—She had been 14 days from Gaudaloupe, and had taken nothing.

Extract from Capt. Kenny's Log Book.

Surinam June June 5.

At 10 A. M. hove up and made sail, stood down the River in company with a French schooner privateer, at Meridian anchored at Fort Amsterdam, not wishing to have intimacy with any company that went to sea.

June 6th, dropt down to Brams Point and anchored, saw a brig privateer stand off and on, which prevented me going out.

June 7th, saw a cutter privateer all day standing off and on.

June 8th, at day light being hazy and a favourable breeze, hove up the anchor, made sail and stood for sea, heard several guns fired to windward. When out of the river saw the above two vessels warmly engaged, set all sail we could draw, and gave them as much room as possible. Being hazy I lost sight of them in about an hour, shortly after the firing ceased.

June 19th, in lat, 20. long 60, was boarded by the British frigate Hydra of 44 guns, Sir Francis Lafory commander, who examined my papers and told me to proceed; he likewise told me he had retaken an American schooner, which had been captured by a corvette from Guadaloupe, which he kept a strict look out for.

June 20th, in lat. 21, long 61, spoke the schr. Favourite Packet, Moffett, from Philadelphia to St. Bartholomews, out 19 days, all well.

Extract of a letter from the supercargo of the ship Fortitude, Kerney, of this port, dated off the mouth of the Ganges, March 5, 1799.

"I have the satisfaction to inform you that the French frigate Le Forte has been taken by his majesty's ship Sybele of 44 guns after a severe action of 2 hours and 45 minutes; during which, the captain, 1st lieut. and 60 men were killed on board the former. The Sybele has received very trifling damage. The Le Forte is a 74 cut down, and now mounts 54 guns, well manned, and sails remarkably fast. She had taken a few days previous to being captured, the Osterly, East-Indiaman in ballast. It is not known the exact damage the Le Forte has done in those seas, but it is supposed to be very great."

The ship Harmony, of Philadelphia, has arrived at Madras.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,

NOW RUNNING BETWEEN

PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,

By the short and pleasant road of Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch-Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening For seats at New York, application may be made to Edward Barding, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars.
Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation, They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has bren taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviour of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns, spoken of with the highest satisfaction.
